

B2

Can you explain the difference between a hyphen and a dash?

Answer: _____

When should you use a semicolon?

Answer: _____

What is the purpose of parentheses in writing?

Answer: _____

How do you use quotation marks correctly?

Answer: _____

What is the rule for using a comma before a coordinating conjunction?

Answer: _____

When should you use an exclamation mark?

Answer: _____

How do you properly use an ellipsis?

Answer: _____

What is the correct punctuation for a possessive noun?

Answer: _____

When do you use a colon?

Answer: _____

What is the rule for capitalizing proper nouns?

Answer: _____

Answers

Can you explain the difference between a hyphen and a dash?

Answer: A hyphen (-) connects two words or parts of words; a dash (—) indicates a pause or emphasis.

When should you use a semicolon?

Answer: A semicolon is used to connect two related independent clauses.

What is the purpose of parentheses in writing?

Answer: Parentheses are used to insert additional information or clarify something.

How do you use quotation marks correctly?

Answer: Quotation marks are used to indicate direct speech or to show the title of a book, song, or other work.

What is the rule for using a comma before a coordinating conjunction?

Answer: Use a comma before a coordinating conjunction (and, but, or, so) to connect two independent clauses.

When should you use an exclamation mark?

Answer: An exclamation mark is used to show strong emotion, emphasis, or surprise.

How do you properly use an ellipsis?

Answer: An ellipsis (...) is used to show omission or a pause in speech.

What is the correct punctuation for a possessive noun?

Answer: The correct punctuation for a possessive noun is an apostrophe followed by an s ('s).

When do you use a colon?

Answer: A colon is used to introduce a list or to separate two independent clauses.

What is the rule for capitalizing proper nouns?

Answer: Proper nouns, like names or titles, are capitalized.